

On Line Study Starting Wednesday May 27th for Four Weeks

Join a four week online book study that fits into your schedule. The online study materials are built around the book, Multiplying Light and Truth by Stan Rowland. It is designed for people to begin to understand the new wholistic, transformational worldview that is being introduced in Neighborhood Transformation.

The study covers eight chapters from the book and deals with understanding the concepts, theology and approach for seeing wholistic transformation to take place. It is not designed to make trainers of the participants.

The study is four weeks in duration and starts on a Wednesday with each week closing the following Wednesday. Participants read two chapters in that week's time period at their leisure.

Participants then go online at their convenience to see a short drama, such as the River Crossing Story, and answer two or three questions.

Their answers are automatically distributed to all online participants, which starts a dialogue.

Think about introducing this to your church. Help them understand the wholistic worldview that is behind Neighborhood Transformation.
